Mickey, Stacie, Danny, Albert and Ash are a tight-knit group – a self styled family; masters of deceit. Long con specialists with a conscience.

HUSTLE

They're successful. The best in the business. Always on the look out for a mark. Ready to take the greedy, the dishonest and the corrupt for all they've got...

A mark must be chosen carefully. Howard Jennings – a property mogul wise to the art of the con – would seem an unlikely target. But could his over-confidence prove to be his undoing? How do you rope in a ruthless Nigerian businessman? Find the one thing he loves and play on that – in his case it's antique bank notes. Albert thinks he's found a ripe mark in a mercenary poker play but he turns out to be Stacie's ex-husband, keen to win her back. Could the gang end up losing much more than money as they watch Stacie fall for him all over again? Mickey plans the gang's most audacious job yet – stealing the 'Star of India'. But things turn sour when Mickey's fence* gets squeezed by the police and tells all. As the gang are taken away in handcuffs, will the family be broken up for good?
